SUMMARY

- Until further updates, organised korfball for adults (aged 18 and over) is not permitted anywhere that stay at home guidance applies.
- Outdoor exercise is limited to a maximum of 2 people if not from the same household (applies to those aged 12 and over).
- Organised korfball for under-12s can continue in line with guidance.

POTENTIAL CHANGES TO GUIDANCE

With the recent update to the Scottish Government's 'Strategic Framework' and 'Route Map' the Scottish Korfball Association anticipate changes to the guidance to occur at the following points (these dates should be treated as provisional):

As of 22nd February – Under 12s can play non-contact korfball outdoors.

15th March (at the earliest) – Under 18s can play non-contact korfball outdoors.

26th April (at the earliest) – A return to the Scottish Government's 'local protection levels', anticipated to begin at Level 3 for all areas in Scotland.

When we return to the levels system in Scotland, further guidance will be issued from the SKA reconfirming the guidelines that should be followed under each level.

At time of publication, the levels system will allow the following korfball activities to take place:
